The 'Friends of The Museum' was formed so that our Heritage Centre, with Museum, could be made financially viable over the production & initial period of settlement until it was able, as a charity, to exist on the funds from regular fundraising events, donors and kind sponsors. The above named people have, and still do, pledge regular personal monies to keep our museum in an exhibit able and working state for visitors to view at our Heritage Centre, and have done so since 2011.

Friends pay £200 each year; this is not to diminish the value of other donations, simply, to distinguish between a pledge and an ad hoc donation.

The original Devonport Field Gun Museum was situated in the Royal Naval Dockyard at Devonport, but due to land being sold off by the MOD, the museum artefacts' & contents had to be moved to a newly found location at Crownhill Fort, Plymouth.
